Description:

Susan Seah's powerful debut poetry collection expound on her love for our four-legged best friend, family member, soothsayer, and unwavering loyalist. Through each poem, Susan paints vivid portraits of the pups in her life, sharing humorous, heart-warming, and emotional stories of their antics, imagined thoughts and secret conversations with her. At the heart of her poems lies the intertwining experiences, unbreakable bond and the mutual love shared between people and their canine companions. Poetry for Pups is a must read for all dog lovers, and certainly for all dogs with the help of their humans.

About Susan Seah – Author

One of Susan Seah's greatest joys is trying to be a tiger mommy to her adorable beagle pups, but often finding herself surrendering to their whims and fancies. From the moment she became a dog mom over two decades ago, her life has been filled with adventures, inspiration, and unconditional love from her fur babies. Besides being a proud parent of her brilliant and mischievous pups, Susan is also a corporate and technology lawyer and a passionate advocate for the empowerment of women.

About Morgan Boyle – Illustrator

Morgan Boyle has always enjoyed being around dogs and was lucky enough to find his sweet little beagle, Koa, who has been a major joy in his life. His background in art and photography allows him to share a glimpse into his fondness for his canine companions. Morgan has publicly displayed his photographic work at the Canon Gallery in Honolulu, Hawaii through the "Vision and Discovery", an event sponsored by Pacific New Media. He was also selected to display his photography three years in a row at "Contemporary Photography in Hawaii", an annual surveyed exhibition of juried works.

If you could talk

I wish you could talk,
for we would banter nonstop on our walk.
You could tell me the day you had,
if it was fun or was it bad?
I could tell you about my life,
if it was joyous or full of strife.
We would laugh at each other's jokes,
gossip about other doggies and their folks.
Together, we could sing out loud,
drawing admirers in a crowd.
But most importantly if you could say,
I love you, each and every day.
If only you could talk.
